THE ELECTIONS IN THE OLD COUNTRY.

The Wave of Popular Opinion Continues to Carry Unionism on Its Crest.

Even Northampton Yields and "Labby's" Majority is Greatly Reduced.

Ex-Ministers Fall Like Ninepins—John Morley is Included in the Slain.

Naylor-Leyland and Curzon Contest in Southport—Beauty's Battle.

The Times Declares that Home Rule Imposture is Swept From the House.

London, July 17.—At ten o'clock last night the result of the general elections was as follows: Conservatives, 166; Unionists, 23; total, 189. Liberals, 29; Parnellites, 4; McCarthyites, 12; Labor, 1; total, 46. The net Unionist gains up to this hour are 20 seats.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt, the Liberal leader, who was recently defeated by Mr. C. Drage, Conservative, in Derby, has accepted the offer of Mr. C. N. Warmington, Q. C., who was recently nominated to stand for West Monmouthshire, to retire in his favor. There was to be no opposition to the candidacy of Mr. Warmington, and Sir William will be nominated in his place tomorrow.

The Chronicle (Liberal) says this morning that it does not share in the enthusiasm for the immediate return of Sir W. Harcourt, adding, "We should almost have counselled a temporary retirement to his own fireside, if his renewed leadership of the party is to be a plague of a local retoist policy. We should like a little time to reflect upon the situation."

Up to midnight last night the returns for the parliamentary elections show the following results: Conservatives, 209; Liberal-Unionists, 31; total Unionist, 231. Liberals, 44; Parnellites, 4; McCarthyites, 12; Labor, 1; total 292. The gains which the Unionists have secured in the elections thus far held insure them a majority of 32 in the next house, even if the remainder of the seats to be voted on remain the same as heretofore. The proportion of the electors who went to the polls was higher than on any former occasion.

The superiority of the Unionists was manifest both by the magnitude of their own majorities and by the extent to which they pulled down their opponents.

Dadadbahi-Naoroji, the Liberal member for the central division of Finsbury, who was once referred to by Lord Salisbury as "the black man" (he being an East Indian), was defeated, while his fellow countryman, Bhrownagree, won a seat for the Conservatives. Lord Salisbury's youngest son, Lord Hugh Cecil, has been returned for Greenwich. A Labor member, Wm. R. Cromer, who sat for the Haggerston division of Shoreditch and who recently made a journey to America to urge the adoption of an arbitration treaty, has been unseated, but the chief event of the day was the dismissal of Postmaster-General Morley, making the fourth ex-minister in Lord Rosebery's cabinet who has been sent in to seclusion.

In Northampton, which is deemed a Radical stronghold, Henry Labouchere's majority was greatly reduced and the Conservatives won the other seat. The big Unionist majorities in Birmingham and Ashton Manor indicate that the Liberal-Unionists continue to be the most important factor in politics. The re-election of Speaker Gully has elicited congratulations all around. A number of the Unionists supported him on the ground that a member chosen as Speaker ought not to be disturbed. The Liberals bitterly reproached Hon. A. J. Balfour for giving continuance to the opposition to his candidacy, declaring that it is unprecedented. The results of last evening were so convincing that there has been little enthusiasm in public places to-day. The clubs showed a paucity of attention, but the scenes of yesterday were repeated in Fleet street. Crowds gathered in front of the newspaper offices and there was much cheering at Conservative gains. Contrary to expectations, Rt. Hon. Joseph Chamberlain's election seemed to delight the populace, but was received with sullenness at the Liberal clubs.

In Dorset west division Col. R. Williams, Con., and in King's county, Birr division, Bernard C. Molloy, Lib., have been returned unopposed.

The Daily News, the Liberal organ, says: "The result in Derby surprised even the local Tories. Sir William Harcourt and his colleagues were floated out on beer. In other constituencies the efforts of publicans and brewers, with the alliance of the militant section of the clergy, contributed largly to the same effect. There is plenty of cause for the Tories triumph, but there is little cause for Liberal discouragement and none whatever for despair. We are used to a bad beginning. There is not a step of Liberal progress which is not taken over the stepping stones of defeat."

It ascribes the Liberal defeat in Lancashire to the scandalous misrepresentations of the government's policy on the Indian cotton duties, which were made in leaflets sent broadcast through the country. The Chronicle says: "We congratulate the Unionists upon having drawn first blood at the empire's cost. They have played anti-imperial and anti-national games for votes of Liberals and have managed to win two seats, owing in some measure to the socialist federation who gained no result for themselves. Their polls were small and contemptible."

The labor candidates at Saturday's elections, having no hope of their success, cost the Liberals their seats. In return, it is likely that Keir Hardie, the labor champion in the house, will be defeated by the abstention or the active hostility of the Irish voters in his constituency.

Daly, who was elected in Limerick the other day, is in Portland prison for dynamite outrages, and he will be denied a seat.

John Parnell is the Redmondite candidate in Meath. At a meeting of his McCarthyite opponents an old letter concerning him from his brother, Charles Stewart Parnell, was read by a priest. It was written in 1888, and began as follows: "I cannot recommend my brother John as a candidate for County Carlow or any other Irish constituency, as I do not think he would make a suitable representative."

London, July 17.—2 p.m.—The following members of the House of Commons have been elected without opposition in addition to those already recorded:

Cork, southeast division—Andrew Commins, anti-Parnellite.

Cork, east division—Anthony J. C. Donelan, anti-Parnellite.

Sussex, middle or Lewis division—Sir Henry Fletcher, Bart., Con.

Buckinghamshire, Aylesbury division—F. James de Rothschild, Unionist.

THE BULGARIAN CRIME.

The Outrage the Work of Political Opponents—Ferdinand Under a Cloud.

The Police Helped the Criminal—M. Stambuloff Slightly Improved.

Sofia, July 16.—M. Stambuloff made a statement later in the day to the public prosecutor, who has ordered the arrest of Tufektchieff, who was formerly charged with the murder of M. Beltchoff, the Bulgarian minister of finance, who was assassinated in March 1891, while in company with M. Stambuloff. Mme. Boltcheff, it will be recalled, was recently induced to believe that Stambuloff was the murderer of her husband and a warrant was issued, but never executed, for his arrest. A man who witnessed M. Stambuloff's coachman pursue the assasin last night says that he saw a policeman strike the coachman because of the latter's refusal to give up the revolver with which he was chasing the criminals and to whom the policemen were not paying any attention.

The condition of M. Stambuloff this evening is such as to give slight hopes that he may yet recover from his wounds.

Berlin, July 16.—The Kolnische Zeitung calls attention to an interview which it had with M. Stambuloff some months ago. M. Stambuloff then had some forebodings of his fate and he said that a band had been formed at Hetschelnaar, a suburb of Sofia, which practiced the use of firearms. The government, he said, was aware of their existence, but winked at it. Among the band were the murders of M. Beltchoff, former minister of finance of Bulgaria, who was assasshnated in 1891. "They have taken an oath to assassinate me," said M. Stambuloff in the interview, "and to avenge Major Panitza, (executed for treason in 1890 at the instance of M. Stambuloff.) Prince Ferdinand is included in the list of impending victims."

London, July 16.—The Vienna correspondent of the Times says in a dispatch to that paper that the attempt to assassinate M. Stambuloff was a painful surprise there. "The belief is openly expressed in competent circles," the correspondent adds, "that the Bulgarian government is morally responsible for the dastardly attempt, and it is feared that it will be attended by consequences more serious for Bulgaria than are generally supposed." The same newspaper prints a dispatch from Berlin in a similar tenor.

A Berlin dispatch to the Daily News reports that the Vossche Zeitung says that the Stambuloff outrage was political and that he is the first victim of the new course directed from St. Petersburg back chambers. The Bulgarian government is pronounced accessory to the crime and Prince Ferdinand is also an accessory. The latter always preferred the better part of valor and went abroad before every great uprising. With the death of Stambuloff the banner of Bulgarian independence sinks to the ground and the land becomes a Russian dependency. The National Zeitung says that July 15 was a black day for Bulgaria, for not only Stambuloff, but most probably for the state, since independent Bulgaria received its death blow.

Sofia, July 17.—M. Stambuloff is reported slightly improved. His heart is stronger and his intellect unimpaired. Numerous messages expressing indignation have been received.

The condition of ex-Premier Stambuloff has grown worse and symptoms of cerebral affection have developed. The right eye was not gouged out like the other, but he has lost the sight of it. The doctors in attendance upon the patient give no hopes of recovery. Nevertheless the government organ, Mir, announces that he will be restored to health in a few weeks. A reward of 1000 francs has been offered for the discovery of his assailants.

THE MURDERED CHILDREN.

Holmes Will be Brought to Canada and Tried.

Toronto, July 16.—The inquest was opened to-night on the bodies of Alice and Nellie Pietzel, which were found yesterday in the cellar of the St. Vincent street house. Evidence was taken as to the finding of the bodies and then the jury adjourned until to-morrow night to await the post mortem report of the medical men entrusted with the examination of the bodies. Detectives Grier and Cuddy are hard at work. To-day they found the expressman who took the trunk which invariably accompanied Holmes in all his journeys into the St. Vincent street house, and this man had no difficulty in picking out Holmes' photograph from a number of others. Detective Grier also thinks he has clues that will lead to the discovery of the fate of Minnie Williams, Holmes' Chicago stenographer, who, he says, went to England with the children, but whom Grier believes Holmes to have murdered.

Philadelphia, July 16.—H. H. Holmes the insurance swindler, accused of having murdered the Pietzel children, whose bodies were found in Toronto yesterday, denies having any knowledge whatever of the crime. It is probable, however, that he will be taken to Canada, there to answer the charge of murder, as the authorities here have about given up the hope of fixing upon him the responsibility for the death of the man found in the Callow Hill Street house in this city, and who it was supposed was the father of the Pietzel children.

Chicago, July 16.—Mrs. Pietzel, the wife of the man said to have been killed by Holmes, resides in this city at present at 6036 Sangamon street. She is very ill now and unable to talk, but consented to a short interview to-night. She said: "Of course I know nothing about the matter, as I have no means of acquiring any information. I have no doubt that all my family have been killed and I never expect to see any of them again. I made up my mind long ago that they were dead and the news from Toronto is no surprise to me. I believe that the boy was murdered also. Mrs. Pietzel is too ill to leave her room and the shock of the news of the finding of the two bodies has greatly weakened her.

Philadelphia, July 17.—H. H. Holmes, alias Herman Mudgett, according to one interpretation of a remark made by him, virtually confessed to the murder of the two Pietzel children, whose bodies have been found in the cellar of a Toronto house. It is learned at the office of the district attorney that during a two hours' interview Holmes had yesterday with three members of the district attorney's staff, he said, "I suppose I'll have to swing for this." This is the only remark from his lips which in any way would tend to criminate him, and the district attorney takes this as a practical admission of Holmes' guilt. Notwithstanding Holmes' remark his counsel says he can prove an alibi in his client's case. He says Holmes was not in Toronto when the two children were murdered. This, he states, can be proved by Mrs. Howard, Holmes' third wife, who is at present in Franklin, Ind.

AMERICAN DISPATCHES.

The Day's Doings in the Neighboring Republic.

Detroit, July 17.—For a long time past the customs officials suspected that Chinese were being smuggled across the border in sleeping cars. The suspicion was verified last night, when some important arrests were made when the Wagner car arrived just across the river from the Grand Trunk railway and was being switched to the Wabash road. Division Superintendent Chamberlain, of the Wagner Company, entered the car accompanied by Special Treasury Agent Wood and Inspector Carney. Conductor Frederick R. Lincoln, Buffalo, and Porter Charles McLaine, Chicago, were obliged to permit the officers to inspect the berths, although they protested there was a woman in the state room. In this compartment were found four Chinamen with Herbert Johnson. Both the conductor and porter were arrested and with the Chinamen went to jail in default of $1,000 bail each, required by the United States court commissioner.

Galesburg, Ill., July 17.—A sensation prevails in Pythian circles here over the order asking the Catholic knights of Pythias to renounce the organization of the College City Lodge, the strongest here. It has many Catholic members and a number of them are averse to leaving their organization. A prominent knight who conferred with Mgr. Satolli in Washington says a movement is on foot to secure a rehearing by the pope and a revocation of the decree.

New York, July 17.—The following are the closing prices on the stock exchange: Sterling exchange, 60 days, 486½; do., demand, 488½; Money, 1; C. P. R. in London, 56¾; do., in Montreal, 56.

Austin, Texas, July 16.—The general impression in state official circles to-day is that under no circumstances will the letter and spirit of Attorney-General Crane's opinion adverse to the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight be departed from, and it is considered certain that the pugilists will not be permitted to fight in Texas. The authorities in their stand are strongly backed by the moral sentiment of the state.

Ogdensburg, N. Y., July 16.—Early this morning Daniel McCarty and Captain Saunders started in a row bow, and when about 400 feet out from the slip Saunders fell out of the boat. McCarty threw him two oars and a chair, he says, and then started for the shore in the boat to procure help, but Saunders was drowned before he could render further assistance. Captain Saunders was a vessel owner and a prominent business man of Kingston, Ont.

Washington, July 17.—The fruit crop report of the agricultural department shows a moderate decline in the condition. The report is summarized as follows: The condition of apples has been materially lowered since the report of June. Losses are especially marked in important states having already low conditions, viz: New England and the states of New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota. In the Piedmont region the outlook is decidedly more favorable. In Missouri and contiguous states the decline has been slight, not above 3 per cent in any case, but the condition is not quite as high as in the Piedmont orchards. On the Pacific Coast the conditions fell 8 to 11 per cent, but the prospect there is still good. Frost at time of bloom, subsequent drought and heavy droppings are the main causes of the impaired prospects. The peach crop returns are also unfavorable.

Oakland, July 17.—Superior Court Judge Ogden rendered a decision in favor of the city in its case against the Water Front Company, otherwise the Southern Pacific railway, involving the title to eleven miles of water front valued at many millions of dollars, which have been practically disputed for forty years. The court held that the Water Front Company had no title to the land, but that the city cannot take possession of the wharves built by the railway company without paying for improvements.

None But Ayer's at the World's Fair.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla enjoys the extraordinary distinction of having been the only blood purifier allowed an exhibit at the World's fair, Chicago. Manufacturers of other sarsaparillas sought by every means to obtain a showing of their goods, but they were all turned away under the application of the rule forbidding the entry of patent medicines and nostrums. The decision of the World's fair authorities in favor of Ayer's Sarsaparilla was in effect as follows: "Ayer's Sarsaparilla is not a patent medicine. It does not belong to the list of nostrums. It is here on its merits."

DEFENCE OF CHITRAL.

Captain Whitecross Awarded the V. C. Other Honors Conferred.

London, July 16.—Captain Whitechurch has been awarded the Victoria Cross for bravery during the siege of Chitral. The fort was attacked by a large body of Umra Khan's troops and Captain Baird of the British force was wounded and lost to view, when Captain Whitechurch reappeared, carrying the wounded man on his back. With this burden he fought his way back to the fort, being obliged to drop the wounded man several times in order to lead bayonet charges against the stone walls from behind which the enemy kept up a galling fire upon the British. When Captain Baird died, on the following morning, he strongly urged Dr. Robertson, the British political agent, to record the bravery displayed by Captain Whitechurch. Colonel Kelly, who relieved the Chitral garrison after accomplishing a brilliant military achievement in leading a flying column from Gilgit to Chitral, passing over the snow-covered Shandur pass, some 12,000 feet above the level of the sea, in bitterly cold weather, has been made a C. B. (companion of the bath) and has been appointed aide de camp to the Queen with the rank of a brevet colonel. The other officers who distinguished themselves during the Chitral campaign have received the distinguished service order and have been promoted.

TARIFF REFORM TRIUMPH.

GOOD STORY OF THE MARINES

Illustrating the Value of the Auditor-General's Services.

The auditor-general's report for the year 1894 contains a good deal of correspondence, between that official and the several departments, which might be very well designated as "spicy," Mr. McDougall being a gentleman with strong views of his own, and being quite willing to make them public on every suitable occasion. As the heads of the departments and their deputies are generally persons who think themselves to be "no small potatoes," the letters that pass from them to Mr. McDougall are frequently lively reading. We will take one of many cases, in the report of last year, for the purpose of illustrating how the auditor-general has, like Horatius, to guard the bridge which leads to the treasury against the assaults of the friends of the government. A certain Samuel Reynolds, the owner of a steamboat called the Golden City, was fined $100 for running his boat without a properly certificated engineer. For some reason, which is not disclosed, an order-in-council was passed remitting the fine, and the deputy minister of marine and fisheries wrote to the auditor-general asking him to issue a cheque for the purpose of refunding the amount of this fine to Samuel Reynolds. The auditor-general, on the 8th of June, 1894, in reply to this application, stated: "That as according to chapter 49 of the revised statutes, section 78, is was provided that no remissions shall be made in any case unless such case has been considered and the remission has been recommended by the treasury board, and as the copy of the order-in-council he had received did not indicate that the case had been considered and recommended by the treasury board, he must hold the application awaiting fuller information." This reply brought Mr. William Smith, deputy minister of marine and fisheries, into the field, and he wrote on the 13th of June, stating that after examining the section alluded to, he was of the opinion that it did not bear on the case referred to, and that inasmuch as an order-in-council had been issued directing a refund, he had to request that the auditor-general be good enough to send him a cheque for $100 to refund Mr. Reynolds the amount of the fine. This letter was impressive, but not convincing, and Mr. McDougall at once addressed a reply to the deputy minister, in which he stated that, while he had expressed his opinion on the section, he did not offer any reason for his decision—in fact, Mr. McDougall indicated that he thought his opinion on the section was better than that of Mr. Smith, and he stated plainly that unless it was indicated in the order-in-council that the case had been considered and recommended by the treasury board, he was unable to pass the application. The deputy minister at this juncture retired from the field, presumably for the purpose of repairing his logical armor, but his place was promptly taken by William L. Magee of the department, who signs himself acting deputy. Mr Magee wrote the auditor-general stating that the section of the statutes which they had been discussing "appears to refer to duty or tolls, and not to a fine imposed for violation of the steamboat act," and, therefore, he would be very much obliged if the auditor-general would issue his cheque to carry out the order-in-council. Mr. McDougall, after considering this letter for five days, wrote in reply that he still adhered to his former opinion, and could not issue the cheque until he had the information he required. Four days later Mr. Magee wrote to Mr. McDougall, giving a fuller exposition of his views in regard to the law on the subject. He agreed with the auditor-general that the sub-section referred to respecting the remission of fines required the recommendation of the treasury board, but he thought that the application of the section was limited to fines for infraction of the revenue law, and that it did not apply to the remission of a fine for the infraction of the steamboat law. He closed by stating that he would refer the matter to the department of justice for an opinion, and communicate the opinion to the auditor-general when he received it. This opinion was forwarded to the auditor-general on the 13th of July by Mr. John Hardie, who signed himself acting deputy of marine and fisheries. Mr. Hardie, in this communication, inclosing the opinion of the minister of justice, the late Sir John Thompson, stated, with some dignity, that he presumed that the auditor-general would not place any obstacle in the way of complying with the terms of the order-in-council. The opinion of the minister of justice was, that the sub-section of the act referred to by the auditor-general had no application to the case then under consideration, but that it only applied to the remission of forfeitures or penalties imposed for contravention of the revenue laws.

This communication, from so high an authority, would have promptly "knocked out" an ordinary man, but Mr. McDougall is not an ordinary man, he was not to be forced to do an illegal act, even if apparently urged to it by the opinion of the minister of justice. While he was thinking the matter over the department became clamorous for the cheque, and somewhat peremptory. On the 24th of July Mr. Hardie wrote demanding the cheque for Captain Reynolds, and again on the 28th of the same month he made a similar demand. This brought out another letter from Mr. McDougall, dated the 30th of July, in which he stated that if the section of the law referred to did not apply to such cases, then there was no authority by statute authorizing the refund of a penalty in such cases as the one under consideration. Mr. Hardie replied a couple of days later, citing two instances in which the auditor-general had issued cheques for the refunding of fines where laws, other than the revenue act, had been violated. This argumentum ad hominem, however, did not discompose Mr. McDougall in the least, and he simply replied that the refunds referred to had been made under a misapprehension of the law which it was now conceded did not apply to such cases. The result was that Mr. McDougall carried his point, and convinced the government that there was no statutory authority to authorize the refunding of a fine for breach of the Steamboat Act. The correspondence closes with a communication from Deputy Smith, who informs the auditor-general that the amount to repay Mr. Reynolds would be placed in the estimates at the next session of parliament. This case affords a remarkable illustration of the value of Mr. McDougall's services as auditor as well as his tenacity and fidelity to the public interests.—St. John Telegraph.

TREE OF 1,000 IMAGES.

Solving the Mystery of the Tree's Wonderful Leaves.

The legend smashing of the present day seems to go hand in hand with the record breaking. Few people have heard of the marvellous tree of Thibet, but, nevertheless, for a long time it has enjoyed a great reputation in the east. It is a sacred tree, and not long ago there was an account in some of the English and French papers of the fabulous prices which were paid for a few of its leaves.

In his Souvenirs de Voyage au Thibet, Pere Hue speaks of this wonderful tree. It is essentially of an artistic and literary turn of mind, and has the strange habit of producing images and hieroglyphics upon its leaves. Sometimes religious figures take the places of the letters, Pere Hue called the mysterious thing "the tree of 1,000 images." These images are found on the leaves, on the stems and on the trunk. Near the temple of Buddha in the village of Lioussar, Thibet, this great tree has stood for years, the plague and puzzle of all the botanists who have never received the gift of faith.

In 1891 William Rockhill, on a trip from China, started out to see this famous tree. He went to Lioussar, a village of about 80 inhabitants and possessing no lamasery. Lamanerie. It shelters about 3,000 Lamas, or Buddhist priests. These priests have several temples, in the largest of which, upon the throne of three meters, is the statue of Buddha, which is said to be of solid pure gold. At precisely ten meters from this temple the famous tree flourishes. But Rockhill came away from there just as ignorant as he had arrived. It was in February, and the tree had no leaves. Hard luck for Rockhill! "I'll try it again," said he; and he afterwards asserted that wherever he went the tree of 1,000 images was a reality; and there was some truth in what he said.

But at last Mgr. Bret, of the foreign mission, and apostolic vicar of Thibet, has past handed over the key to the mystery. The fake was explained to him by a Lama, who, while on a pilgrimage, became sick, and on being cured by the bishop, abjured his religion and became a Catholic. The story is somewhat amusing. To raise the wind in the grand lamanerie of Lioussar, it is necessary to have recourse to expedients. Every wonderful thing pays, even in Thibet. A great antiquity was given to the tree, and indeed it was claimed that it had existed from time immemorial. But, after all, the trick was simple enough, like every other trick, when it was found out. In the spring and in the summer on dark nights a Lama, with his pockets full of hand stamps and endowed with acrobatic powers that would put all our showmen in the shade, climbs through the tree and stamps the leaves with all sorts of hieroglyphic characters, the most numerous being the following formula: Om mane padone om (glory to Buddha in the lotus). This is also stamped upon the bark; and ne leaves and portions of the bark are sold to visitors. In this way the Lamas do a flourishing business. It might not be safe for a fellow to say openly that that was the way it was done in the neighborhood of Lioussar; and this serves to show how useful it is for one to know just when and where to keep his mouth shut. The characters are changed frequently, so that the leaves of 1895 do not look one bit like the leaves of 1888. Pere Hue has some leaves, and so has the Prince of Orleans, and every other visitor, but they are all different. The naturalists need not bother themselves about finding out the precise family of this tree. It is well known now, and its name is Fake.—New York Sun.

Don't you know that Hood's Sarsaparilla will overcome that tired feeling and give you renewed vigor and vitality?

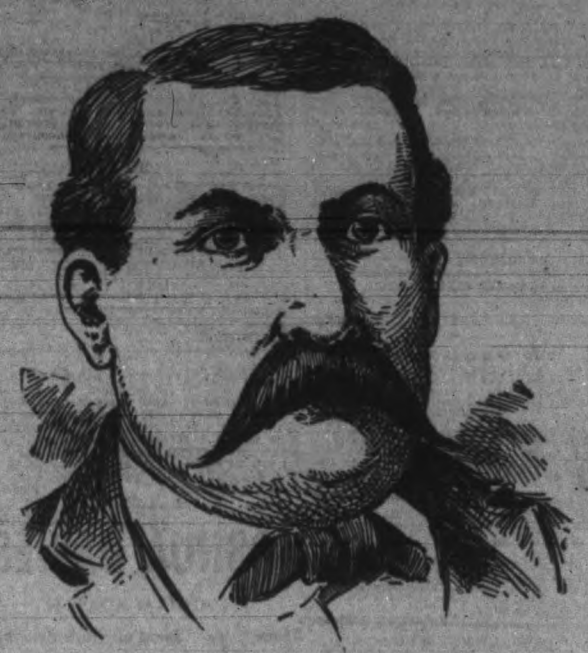
When the Nerve Centres Need Nutrition.

A Wonderful Recovery, Illustrating the Quick Response of a Depleted Nerve System to a Treatment Which Replenishes Exhausted Nerve Forces.



MR. FRANK BAUER, BERLIN, ONT.

Perhaps you know him? In Waterloo he is known as one of the most popular and successful business men of that enterprising town. As managing executor of the Kuntz estate, he is at the head of a vast business, representing an investment of many thousands of dollars, and known to many people throughout the Province. Solid financially, Mr. Frank Bauer also has the good fortune of enjoying solid good health, and if appearances indicate anything, it is safe to predict that there's a full half century of active life still ahead for him. But it's only a few months since, while nursed as an invalid at the Mt. Clemens sanitary resort, when his friends in Waterloo were dismayed with a report that he was at the point of death.

"There's no telling where I would have been had I kept on the old treatment," said Mr. Bauer, with a merry laugh, the other day, while recounting his experiences as a very sick man. "Mt. Clemens," he continued, "was the last resort in my case. For months previous I had been suffering indescribable tortures. I began with a loss of appetite and sleepless nights. Then, as the trouble kept growing, I was getting weaker, and began losing flesh and strength rapidly. My stomach refused to retain food of any kind. During all this time I was under medical treatment, and took everything prescribed, but without relief. Just about when my condition seemed most hopeless, I heard of a wonderful cure effected in a case somewhat similar to mine, by the Great South American Nervine Tonic, and I finally tried that. On the first day of its use I began to feel that it was doing what no other medicine had done. The first dose relieved the distress completely. Before night I actually felt hungry and ate with an appetite such as I had not known for months. I began to pick up in strength with surprising rapidity, slept well nights, and before I knew it I was eating three square meals regularly every day, with as much relish as ever. I have no hesitation whatever in saying that the South American Nervine Tonic cured me when all other remedies failed. I have recovered my old weight—over 200 pounds—and never felt better in my life."

Mr. Frank Bauer's experience is that of all others who have used the South American Nervine Tonic. Its instantaneous action in relieving distress and pain is due to the direct effect of this great remedy upon the nerve centres, whose fagged vitality is energized instantly by the very first dose. It is a great, a wondrous cure for all nervous diseases, as well as indigestion and dyspepsia. It goes to the real source of trouble direct, and the sick always feel its marvellous sustaining and restorative power at once, on the very first day of its use.

THE GOVERNMENT'S BLUNDER.

The Toronto World grows more and more rebellious over the school programme of its party leaders. In a late issue it said:—"The government surrendered to the French ministers and to the solid vote from Quebec that backed them up in their demands. As far as the public know there was no one in the ministry to stand out against the demands made upon them; one and all of the ministers stand by the declaration made, but the declaration, such as it is, is a declaration of the government and their followers and masters in Quebec. It is a declaration not acceptable to the Conservative party of Ontario, or to the Conservative press in this province; it is a declaration about which Ontario will have something to say later on." At another time the World said:

"The seriousness of the situation has not grown less. It does not so much turn on the defection of the three French ministers as it turns on the fact that the Bowell administration as an administration stands committed and pledged to introduce remedial legislation coercive as to Manitoba, dictated by Quebec, and in spite of the remonstrance of Ontario. And to this remedial legislation the Ontario ministers, Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Mr. Haggart and Dr. Montague, are pledged, and to it 30 or more Conservative members from Ontario have signified that they are decidedly opposed. That is much the more serious fact. To this must be added what comes to us in the dispatches that the members of the cabinet are so much divided that they will not trust one another, but insist on written pledges and public declarations. The World could easily comprehend that the Ontario ministers had determined to resign, because they could not support a remedial bill in view of the opinion expressed by the bulk of the Conservative members from Ontario, or that they had determined to resign because their colleagues declined to take their word of honor, but why French ministers should resign under the circumstances narrated in the dispatches passes our comprehension.

"They apparently have got all they should seek. The Bowell administration is pledged up to the hilt by the announcement of Monday, and pledged in such a way that the government must be convinced that it means their almost certain defeat in Ontario. Either horn of the dilemma would seem sufficient for their destruction: impalement on both means a double death.

"The Conservative party is, as we pointed out yesterday, in a most critical position, and the only way out of it is for some kind of cabinet reconstruction, to be decided on at once. The Conservative party has got into a muddle by a discordant cabinet trying to harmonize itself. The party is suffering from the errors and disagreements of some of its ministers. Why do not these ministers relieve the party of responsibility for their mistakes?"

The Hamilton Spectator is no less outspoken, and is equally anxious to see the cabinet reconstructed as a means of solving the difficulty. It speaks editorially as follows:

"The situation is precisely what it was before, except that the government has changed the imperious attitude it adopted toward Manitoba in the remedial order for the humiliating attitude of supplication, and now on bended knees asks Manitoba to do what a few months ago it was foolish enough to order that province to do, foolish enough, the government fondly hoped, to frighten with a threat. Please, do this, dear Greenway, and help us out of a hole, and we shall always thereafter be your servants and bondsmen," pleads Sir Mackenzie Bowell; "but, by the great horn spoon, if you don't give us what we are now begging for on our bended knees, we'll take it by force, d'ye hear, sirrah?" That is more like the petition of a sturdy tramp at a kitchen door than the utterance of a dignified government.

"With the exception noted, there has been no change in the purpose of the government: it was in favor of coercing Manitoba, and it is in favor of coercing Manitoba; the only difference being that the date for the coercion has been postponed from June to January.

"The postponement has not pleased the French. * * * The British members are dissatisfied. The government, in a vain attempt to please the French, has ruthlessly consigned almost every Ontario Conservative member—and many members from other provinces—to their political graves. The government has hanged the millstone of the remedial legislation promise about the neck of the Ontario member, and bade him plunge into the sea. Imagine Conservative candidates appearing before the people of Hamilton and asking to be returned to Ottawa to vote for the coercion of Manitoba! And as it is in Hamilton so it is the province over, and in the other British provinces. The Quebec Conservatives are handicapped by the fact that the government has postponed the remedial legislation which it could introduce just as well now as next January, and with better prospects of being able to carry it. Altogether the decision is most unsatisfactory.

"But will the arrangement be carried out? It may be accepted as a foregone conclusion that the Greenway government will do nothing more than to make elaborate pretense of considering the Dominion government's humble petition (with dynamite bomb attachment) and to reply in a courteous letter declining to make any change in the school legislation which the people of Manitoba have so generally endorsed. The contingency of the compromise need not be at all considered—there will be none. Then there remains the threat of the government to force Manitoba to attempt which would be the death of any government. Is the Conservative party of Canada, having in charge the welfare of the country; being the preservers of the trade policy of the country, to be wrecked by the government in a vain attempt to please the French of Quebec? Is the whole country and its business and general interests to be allowed to go to the dogs because a few Quebec Frenchmen insist upon imposing a miserable religious question upon the notice of parliament—a question which should never have been taken up by the government? Is the great Conservative party to stand by idly and see its managers at Ottawa entangling themselves in the meshes of the French net to the imminent danger of the trade policy of which that party is the promoter and guardian?

"The postponement does not better the situation; it makes it worse. During the next six months the Quebeckers will be encouraged to continue to demand, and the British members will be encouraged to refuse to bow the knee to Quebec, and give up the management of the general government and the management of the provincial schools to the insatiable French Canadian, and when parliament is called again the fight will be stronger than ever. Is the country bound to endure this turmoil for another six months with no greater chance for ending it then than now?

"There is one way out. A reconstruction of the cabinet would wipe out all plans and promises, and with the sad experience of the present cabinet before their eyes, the new government might be able to end the dispute and restore the country to peace and harmony."

The two papers from which we have quoted are among the most prominent Conservative journals of Ontario, and they are good judges of Ontario Conservative opinion. When they agree in saying that the government can be saved only by reconstruction and a repudiation of the pledge given to the Quebec men their opinion must necessarily be accepted as an idea of their party's feelings. For our own part we cannot see that reconstruction and repudiation would be as potent in the way of salvation as these two papers appear to believe.

ANOTHER MAN STRUCK.

To the Editor: Like "Ratepayer," I was also struck at the majority of the council refusing to entertain Ald. Partridge's motion to measure the electric light wire when there seems to be two and three-quarter miles of this expensive wire missing. Still, these things do happen. MORE LIGHT.

EASTERN FISH KINGS.

Fish Handlers From the Eastern Cities Conferring With Coast Dealers.

What Cannery Men in the East Think of Pacific Coast Halibut.

Among those who registered at the Driard last evening were Mr. David I. Robinson, of the Atlantic Halibut Company, wholesale shippers of halibut, and Mr. Samuel Z. Chesbro, of Chesbro Brothers & Co., New York city, who, in the words of one of the party, "handle every kind of fish that swim." Last year the Atlantic Halibut Company handled all the halibut shipped east from Victoria and Vancouver, through Chesbro Brothers, their agent in New York, while the latter firm received a large amount of the fresh salmon shipped from the Fraser river.

The object of the visit of Messrs. Robinson and Chesbro to the Coast is to give the shippers of fish a few pointers as to catching, packing and shipping fish for the eastern markets, and it is incidentally suggested that the Atlantic Company may become interested in the Victoria Company, but in regard to the latter nothing has as yet been decided upon. Mr. Robinson spent most of to-day conferring with Mr. Henry Croft, manager of the Victoria Company, Capt. Langley, of the steamer Thistle, and a number of the shareholders of the company, obtaining information as to the prospects for the season's catch and in return giving them ideas as to the best means of proceeding to make their venture a success.

In conversation with a Times representative to-day Mr. Robinson said that the Pacific Coast halibut shipped last year had been fairly satisfactory, although, on account of the inexperience of the shippers, the fish shipped early last season did not reach the eastern markets in as good a condition as desired, and consequently there was a loss. But towards the end of the season everything worked more smoothly and the fish reached the market in better time. There are three things that have to be attended to in the shipment of fresh fish. In the first place, they have to be properly packed, then they must be sent to market as quickly as possible, and thirdly, cheap freight rates have to be obtained. The latter requirement was being met. On the first shipments last year the freight amounted to $1250 a car, but this had been cut down by nearly one half before the season closed.

Asked as to what the eastern people thought of the Pacific Coast salmon, Mr. Robinson said at present they were a little prejudiced against it. But there were several things in its favor, principally its size, which makes it a more marketable fish than the eastern halibut.

Mr. Samuel Z. Chesbro, of Chesebro Bros., New York city, the largest handlers in the east of Fraser river salmon, and the pioneer firm in handling carload lots from Westminster, is associated with Mr. Robinson only as far as halibut is concerned. Mr. Chesebro says there is a tendency on the part of local shippers to over-supply the eastern market at certain seasons of the year, the supposition, apparently, being that the eastern market could dispose of an unlimited supply at any time. This was not the case, as, for instance, in 1893, several carloads of sockeyes only brought 6cts. per pound on the New York market, resulting in a heavy loss to the exporters, the railway company getting the whole thing. He is anxious to have the supply regulated, when both exporters and sellers will be able to make a reasonable profit.

Speaking of the Fraser river salmon, Mr. Chesebro stated that the sockeyes, which were unknown on the eastern markets four or five years ago, had been gradually introduced and were now quite popular. This was largely due to their rich color. The Fraser river spring salmon, he candidly admitted, is the best produced on the Pacific coast, and is in favor everywhere.

Messrs. Robinson and Chesbro have been on the Mainland for several days, and go from here to Seattle. They are accompanied by Mr. H. A. Humphrey, of New York, who is travelling for pleasure.

WORK HAS BEGUN.

Sewer Extension by Day Labor—Belleville Street to be Improved

Work has already commenced on the extension of the sewerage system as decided upon in the series of resolutions passed at the meeting of the council on Friday last. Ground has already been broken on Yates and Fort streets, and as soon as the transefer of land to and from the Douglas estate on Belleville street can be completed, a start will be made there. The work is being done by day labor and the board of Aldermen will not interfer in the matter of who shall be employed. The men in charge have been simply directed to engage good men who can do a satisfactory day's work and if any fail to meet the requirements to discharge them. A number of men have been employed already, and more will be put on as the work advances to a state that they can be employed properly.

In connection with the work on Belleville street it is proposed to put the street in such shape that should anything happen to the James Bay bridge, it can be used as a fairly short alternative route to the city. It will be necessary to do some filling in in places and the work will cost quite a sum, but it is felt necessary that it should be done. Speaking about it this morning, Mayor Teague said: "It has not been fully decided as yet to put the street in shape for traffic and give a short route to the city in the event of the James Bay bridge ever being closed, but I imagine it will be done. We have been considering the matter over and look upon it favorably. We will start work on Belleville street as soon as the pending transfer of property is made."

Thomas Gray and his Wife Charged With the Crime.

Peterboro, Ont., July 17.—The trial of Thomas Gray and his wife Bessie, for the murder of David Scollie, who was found dead in the ruins of Gray's house, which was burned in February, 1894, began yesterday. David Bellingham, undertaker, and John Graham Weir, a neighbor of the Grays, gave evidence to-day which went to show that Scollie's head was not burned off, but had evidently been severed by some sharp instrument prior to the fire.

—The Methodist camp-meeting at Sidney is assuming grand proportions. The white tents dotted among the trees, the large boarding tent, at which the ladies of Centennial church industriously and substantially supply the material comforts of visitors, and the fine large platform where the meetings are held, all attract a crowd with the novelty that always attends the old fashioned meetings. Another large crowd went out this morning. Mrs. Barrett, of Port Townsend, spoke at 11 o'clock on the "mission of Jesus Christ to men." She had an attentive audience and her address was a good one. Rev. J. J. Ashton, B.A., spoke this afternoon and tonight at 8 Rev. J. F. Betts will speak. Every indication points to a successful meeting. The week's programme will be announced to-morrow.

The lodge met at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and dispatched its business, and everything was in readiness for the supper at 8:30 o'clock. Worshipful Master Muir presided, and beside him sat Past Grand Master McMicking and District Deputy Grand Master Hickey. A large number of officers of the army and navy were in attendance. The supper was an excellent one and the wines were the best. There were speeches, songs, stories and recitations of a capital nature to complete the enjoyment of the affair.

KILLED 350 IN A YEAR.

Areski, "The Terror of Kabyle," Guillotined in Algiers.

Areski is dead. This most famous of modern bandits, says the New York World, the man who was known in every inch of French Algeria, and even along the boulevards of Paris as the "Terror of the Kabyle," and of whom an Arabic phrase was current, "The hand of Areski is sure, his blade is long and keen and it always finds the hearts of his enemies," has met his death on the guillotine, within a fortnight, in the Algerian town of Azazga.

The execution was notable, inasmuch as all the savage chief's swarthy lieutenants were decapitated immediately before him. No less a presonage than Diebler, the famous headsman of France, touched the button that let down the shining triangular blade upon those necks. A circle of Algerian horsemen surrounded the guillotine. The bright blue of their uniforms stood out vividly against the gleaming white sands. Each bandit was led with measured steps towards the "widow," between two stout guards, habited in long black frock coats, sombre trousers and silk hats. At the platform upon which each victim was laid and which by a touch of mechanism slides slowly until it comes to a rest under the terrible knife, stood Diebler, "Monsieur de Paris," perfectly garbed in long black coat and glossy tile.

The horsemen had gathered at midnight. An hour later the machine of death was put in its place and the white blades were carefully tried. An hour more and the necks of the condemned men were shaven that the knife might not be swerved, a custom as old as the guillotine. At five when no other tint appeared in the sky save a faint yellowish glow, the sombre guards and the white robed, Arab-costumed, black-bearded, sullen prisoners, walked into the circle. Seven minutes from the second the first knife fell it was all over. Each bandit died in one and one-sixth seconds.

Not one weakened. The only complaint they made was that they were not permitted to see their families. They filed out of their prison chanting verses of the Koran, and accompanied by the mufti of Mussulman priest, who repeated to them, one after another, consolatory passages from the Mohammedan bible.

"Verily repentance will be accepted with God," softly said the priest to each, "From those who do evil ignorantly and then repent speedily, unto them will God be turned, for God is knowing and wise."

In answer to this attempt at consolation Areski shouted back these Koran phrases: "When ye march to war in the earth, it shall be no crime in you if ye shorten your prayers, in case ye fear the infidels may attack you; for the infidels are your open enemy. God hath indeed promised every one paradise, but hath preferred those who fight for the faith befort those who sit still."

The sharp knife fell on Armed-Namar-ou-Tahar, and this chieftain died a soldier's death. Ali-Ouel-Hadj-Karli, who was entitled to wear the turban conferred upon those who had kissed Mahomet's tomb, followed him. The next to die was Mahommed-Ouiddir, a giant, who laid himself upon the sliding platform without a tremor. The parricide, Amokran, followed, and succeeding him was Abdouin, who, as he marched to where the knife was raised high in air, sang in French, in a cheery tone and with a loud voice, to the stirring melody of an old caravan song, "Nous sommes tous mortels." (We are all mortal.)

Last of all, Areski, the master, whose hands were stained with the blood of hundreds, was led forward, and a tremor ran through the immense crowd of natives behind the impassive cavalry men when they saw that the chieftain was dying like a savage. It was all his guards could do to hold him in leads. He kicked and spat and bit, and swerved his lithe, long body in a vain attempt not to get away, for that was impossible, but to delay the moment when that fatal, blood-stained "widow's kiss" should be his.

But Diebler was not to be delayed. Not for an instant did Areski's struggles arrest the clockwork action. All he had time for as he was hurried across the gleaming white sand was to shout these sentences from the Koran: "But the infidels will not cease to doubt concerning it until the hour of judgment cometh suddenly upon them." "Say I fly for refuge until the Lord of the day-break, that he may deliver me from the mischief of those things which he hath created, and from the mischief of the night when it cometh on."

And so the knife fell, closing the series of tragedies the Algerian bandits had caused for three years. It had taken 800 French and native troops to drive them from their mountain fastnesses and exterminate the band. Of the forty that Areski headed, twenty-four were killed in the woodland conflicts. The others were carried before the Algerian court of assize to be condemned. Four only were pardoned.

The faculty of medicine of Algeria claimed the bodies and permission was granted. But the Kabyle women had taken possession of them, carried them under a great tree and were sewing on the heads to the trunks. The doctors started back at this spectacle, and wondered what it meant, these savage mountain women, two each kneeling at the side of a corpse and performing this ghastly task. Then the doctors recalled an old Mahometan tradition that Azrael, the Angel of death, carries off the dead to Paradise by the hair of their heads, grasping that long tuft that every true Mussulman lets grow on the summit of his cranium, and which he calls "Mahomet."

Six years ago Areski, till then known only as a tribesman of little importance, in the Algerian uplands, stole another man's wife and cattle, first killing the husband. The latter's relatives appealed to the French authorities. The murderer was made prisoner, and, after a fair trial, was sentenced to penal servitude for life in the miasmic regions of French Guiana. Inside of a year he escaped. He worked his way back to Algeria, determined, in accordance with the ancient custom, to kill every man who had testified against him and all of that man's relatives. He gathered about him thirty-nine like desperadoes and devil-may-cares and established a basis of supplies in the uplands.

His men he spurred on by the hope of plunder, for whenever an old enemy of Areski was made to bite the dust the deceased's wife and property went to them. As the bandit king's murders were wholesale, the pickings, as they might be called, were extensive. In a twelve-months he killed over three hundred and fifty people. On one occasion he led his band to a village wherein lay several of his enemies who were "on his little list." He deployed his men so that at least one gun was trained on every street. The villagers, being reduced to a state of desuetude, Areski sedately murdered, one by one, the people he had in view, burning their houses and destroying their goods.

He managed to wipe out every enemy and every relative of an enemy off the face of the earth. This life had fascinated him, and he became a bandit merely for plunder and excitement. No quarter of Algeria, save the French cities, were safe. Yet, curiously enough, his despoiling was confined entirely to natives. He never molested a foreigner. In fact, so far as foreign interests were concerned, he was an excellent police official, for there are instances when he saved the lives and property of Frenchmen and Englishmen against the attacks and depredations of other savage bands.

A travelling Englishman has been met on the road by brigands, and his watch, valuables and baggage stolen. The French officials were totally at sea. He wrote to Areski. It was curious that while Areski could never be found by the authorities, a letter addressed "Areski, Bandit, Algeria," would always reach him. In this case, a week after the letter was sent, a messenger arrived at the Englishmen's quarters, left some packages and disappeared like a ghost. In the packages were found the traveler's watch, his jewellery, the most of his baggage and the greater part of his money.

WOMEN AS DETECTIVES.

Sally Brass, Helen Gould and Pinkerton Attaches.

Almost every profession and business is open to the woman of to-day, who seems to grasp the particular methods required with an intelligence that wins universal admiration for her capacity.

No so many years ago Charles Dickens laughed at the female lawyer in his character of "Sally Brass," yet at the present time how many young women of an utterly different type are practising law in various American cities? In New York it has been for some time a fashionable necessity for the rich man's daughter to attend classes and lectures in law, and to receive, if possible, a degree. Among the many women of metropolitan fame Miss Helen Gould is noted for her clever comprehension of legal technicalities, which will doubtless aid her in guarding her immense fortune.

One branch of work about which little has been written, comparatively speaking, is woman's career as a detective. For this her natural intuition and her interest in intrigue especially qualify the weaker (?) sex. It is a positive fact that many detective bureaus employ women regularly in the secret service, but they guard their names with care and will not reveal them.

The Pinkertons have many clever women on their staff of workers, and give them generous payment for efficient accomplishments. Their women are used in three ways: First, as "shadowing" suspicious characters, that is to say, following them about the streets and learning their haunts and habits; secondly, to watch and become acquainted with persons who are likely to know the object of the search and who may be able to impart information. The great art here comes in quickly determining how important this person may be, and in drawing out the required knowledge with a tact that never awakens suspicion. The third division is by riding in street cars and railway trains and watching the guards and conductors to see if they serve the company properly, and if they are honest with the funds they collect. Often the wives and daughters of railway men make application at the detective bureau for this kind of work and are received. Again, women often serve through the private employment of a detective official, who, during the course of an investigation, realizes the importance of some woman's co-operation, and engages and pays her for helping him acquire the necessary data and preserving the scent of the trail.

GOLDEN.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Golden, June 12.—Within the last few weeks quite a sensation has been caused in the district of East Kootenay, B. C., by the discovery of an extensive ledge of gold-bearing quartz in the Bug-a-boo country. Hitherto prospecting in this district has been confined to the remote mountainous parts and the heads of the various creeks tributary to the Columbia river, and although several ledges of auriferous quartz and argentiferous galena have been discovered, as yet, owing to the great difficulty of transit to these localities, little or no development work has been done. A few weeks ago the Hon. F. W. Aylmer, who has for years been interested in the mineral development of East Kootenay, and his partner, Mr. James White, being convinced that the gold-bearing quartz was not confined solely to the mountain tops, turned their attention to an examination of the foothills on the Bug-a-boo, and have been amply rewarded for their trouble by the discovery of what is now known as the Balrath ledge.

This ledge has been for many years well known to prospectors without ever attracting their serious attention. It remained for the above named gentlemen to demonstrate its true value. Balrath is cut by the Bug-a-boo creek about four miles from its junction with the Columbia river, and is 42 miles by direct steamboat route from the town of Golden on the C. P. R. A survey of the locality shows by well defined croppings that the ledge extends for over 6500 feet, with every probability of its being of much greater extent. But, as it runs "blind" to the south of the Bug-a-boo, this has yet to be ascertained. The ledge, which cuts the surrounding slate in a northwesterly direction, is twelve feet in width and shows, from a careful sampling throughout its whole length, an average value of $52 in gold to the ton. But the value of the ledge, great as it is, is considerably enhanced by the many facilities afforded by its situation, and the great natural advantages it possesses for being easily and inexpensively worked throughout the whole length. Unlimited water power is available, the ledge being cut by the Bug-a-boo and Driftwood creeks. These streams are 3500 feet distant from one another. Immediately above the ledge, on the Bug-a-boo is an extensive belt of timber, while the rolling foothills, though to a great extent grass land, are fairly well timbered.

With the discovery of the Balrath ledge a new and prosperous era is inaugurated in the history of East Kootenay, and a fresh impetus is given to mining and prospecting throughout the district. Mr. Aylmer and his partner are to be congratulated on possessing a mine which seems only to be endowed with those properties which are the most attractive to the capitalist. Rich in the precious metal, inexpensive to operate, and easily accessible, Balrath promises to be one of the most valuable mining properties in the whole province of British Columbia.

VERNON.

There is considerable excitement at Long Lake over the death from the bite of a rattlesnake of the young daughter of O. O. Boyes. The little girl had been on a visit to her grandfather, Mr. Parker, on the Commonage, near the railway and on Friday morning, with others, went out to pick green peas for dinner. She was but four years old and did not know enough to take warning by the rattler's signal of danger, and before assistance could reach her she was struck by the venomous reptile, whose fangs conveyed the poison to the helpless body, and which at once began its deadly work. She was taken by her grandfather to this city and placed under medical treatment by Dr. Reinhardt. Everything that medical skill and science could do for her was done, but without avail. She suffered intense agony, death coming to her relief at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Her parents and relatives are receiving the heartfelt sympathy of everyone in their sad bereavement. The remains were interred on Saturday, Rev. G. E. Wilson, B. A., officiating, the funeral taking place from the government office. Mr. Norris has shown the bereaved family every consideration and kindness possible. The fact that rattlers exist hereabouts has been known for some years, but the present is the first death that has been reported.

NEW WESTMINSTER.

James Hamilton, of Port Kells, was drowned in a slough on Pitt Meadows late Sunday afternoon. After chatting with some friends on the dyke for a short time, Hamilton and a friend descended to the water, intending to go over to Port Kells to spend Sunday at home. In shoving the canoe away from the dyke the craft was upset and both men were thrown into the water. Hamilton did not appear to be able to swim, and was drowned, but his friend got ashore in safety. The body was recovered shortly afterwards. Deceased was in the employ of the B. C. Dyking & Drainage Co., and was about 35 years of age. He leaves a widow and two children at Port Kells to mourn his loss. Mrs. Hamilton is a daughter of Mr. Thomas Kerr, formerly manager of the woollen mills, Westminster, and had been in the province about seven years.

The body of Captain John Robert Tidy was brought to the city on Saturday evening from Ladner, and an inquest was held Monday morning. The evidence adduced went to show that deceased left Vancouver on the steamer Fiscal on Saturday, July 6, and reached Ladner next day [illegible] steamer was tied up to the wharf. Captain Tiddy went ashore and was last seen between 6 and 7 o'clock the same evening. He had been drinking during the day, but was in condition, when last seen, to take care of himself. The steamer sailed on the return trip without the captain, whose disappearance could not be accounted for. The body was picked up near Wadham's cannery on Saturday. A post mortem examination was made by Dr. Boggs, who could find no evidence of foul play on the body. After going into all the evidence available the jury found a verdict of found drowned, but by what means the deceased came to his death no evidence was adduced to disclose. Deceased was 47 years of age and a native of England. He leaves a wife and family in Vancouver.

IMMENSE FREIGHT BOOKINGS.

N. P. Line Had Nearly 30,000 Tons Afloat and 15,000 Booked in July.

The Northern Pacific Steamship Company will, in the year 1895, surpass all records ever made by a trans-Pacific line in the mater of transporting freight. On July 8th they had nearly 30,000 tons afloat and half as much more engaged, all destined for the Coast. The following statement will show the immense operations of the company:

At Tacoma—Steamship Strathnevis, arrived at Tacoma on July 8; 6300 tons.

Between Yokohama and the Pacific coast—Manx King, sailing vessel, left Yokohama June 15, due at Tacoma about July 20; 3300 tons. Dodhope, sailing vessel, left Yokohama on June 26, due at Tacoma about August 1; 4200 tons. Eskdale, steamship, left Yokohama on July 2, due at Victoria on July 22; 6100 tons. Evandale, steamship, left Yokohama on July 9, due at Victoria on July 29; 6400 tons. Total tonnage, 20,000.

On the berth at China and Japan ports—Whittieburn, sailing vessel, to sail from Yokohama on July 25 for Tacoma direct, full engaged; 4300 tons. Dalgonar, sailing vessel, to sail from Yokohama on August 15 for Tacoma, fully engaged; 5700 tons. Straits of Dover, steamship, sailed from Hong Kong on July 10 for Victoria and Tacoma via China and Japan ports, fully engaged; 5800 tons.

The steamship Victoria leaves Hong Kong on July 16; steamship Tacoma on August 6, and the steamship Hankow on August 27. The Victoria and Tacoma are well known, but the Hankow is new to this trade. She was previously of William Milburn & Co.'s well-known line to China and Australia. She is a large carrier, being capable of receiving about 5200 tons. She has good accommodation for about 50 saloon passengers, and is of handsome model. The Strathnevis sails from Tacoma on Thursday, 18th instant, for Yokohama direct with about 4000 tons of general cargo, largely flour.

For Puget Sound Points.

The fast steamer Sehome, Chas. E. Clancy, master, leaves here every morning, excepting Sundays, at 9 o'clock for Port Townsend and Seattle, arriving at Seattle at 4 p.m., connecting with N.P. R.R. trains for the east. Returning, she leaves Seattle at 10 p.m. daily excepting Sunday, arriving here at 6 a.m. Tickets at Northern Pacific R. R. office.

MINING MEERSCHAUM.

How the Great Turkish Deposits Are Brought to the Use of Mankind.

The manner of working the rich deposits of meerschaum recently discovered in Turkey is thus described in the Engineering and Mining Journal, May 18: "The meerschaum is extracted in the same way as coal. Pits of 25 to 120 feet deep are dug, and as soon as the vein is struck, horizontal galleries, sometimes of considerable length, are made, but more than two galleries are seldom to be found in one pit. The stone as extracted is called 'ham-tash' (rough block), and is soft enough to be easily cut with a knife.

"It is white, with a yellowish tint, and is covered with a red clayey soil of about one inch thick. In this state the blocks are purchased by dealers on the spot, not by weight, nor by measurement, but according to the approximate quantity, either per load of three sacks, or per cartload, the price varying from £5 to £30 per load, according to the quality. These dried blocks are dried and subjected to certain preparation before being conveyed to Eski-Shehir. Some of them are as small as a walnut, while others attain the size of a cubic foot. Those which combine regularity of surface and size are the best. The manipulation they require before they are ready for exportation is long and costly. They clayey soil attached is removed, and the meerschaum dried.

"In summer exposure for five or six days to the sun's rays suffices, but in the winter a room heated to the required temperature is required, and the drying process takes eight or ten days. When well dried the locks are well cleaned and polished; then they are sorted into about twelve classes, each class being packed with great care in separate cases, and each block being wrapped in cotton wool. * * * The quantity annually exported is put down at 8000 to 10,000 cases. The various taxes levied by the Turkish government amount to about 37 per cent ad valorem. It is maintained locally that the Eski-Shehir meerschaum is superior to that of Sebastopol and Caffa, in the Crimea; of Egrilos (Negropont), and of Corinth."

Sharpe, Experimental Farm, Agassiz; officers of the department of agriculture; members of the board of horticulture and many others. It has been arranged with the Canadian Pacific Railway company that for this convention tickets will be on sale at rates shown below: From Vancouver, New Westminster, or Port Moody, to Agassiz and return, $2.50; on sale Aug. 1st, good to return at any time up to and including Monday, Aug. 5th. From Hammond to Agassiz and return, $2.30; on sale Aug. 1st, good to return up to and including Aug. 5th. From Mission City to Agassiz and return, $1.50; on sale Aug. 1st, good to return up to and including Aug. 5th. From Vernon and intermediate points to Agassiz and return, single fare for the round trip; on sale July 31st, good for return up to and including Aug. 8th. The system to be adopted in the issuance of tickets for this convention will be as follows, and special attention to the same is requested. When purchasing tickets be sure to advise the ticket agent that you are going to attend the Farmers' Convention at Agassiz, when the agent will furnish you with a single ticket from your starting point to Agassiz on payment of the fare as above mentioned, and in addition will supply a certificate on which reference is made to the form and number of the ticket he has furnished. This certificate must be vised by either J. R. Anderson, deputy minister of agriculture, or A. H. B. Macgowan, secretary, and when you are returning must be presented to the C. P. R. ticket agent at Agassiz, who will furnish return transportation without cost. You will note the certificate expires on dates as above mentioned. For example: A delegate purchases a ticket at Vancouver, pays the agent $2.50, receives ticket for one transportation only and certificate stating form and number of the ticket issued. Certificate is held by the delegate, handed to either J. R. Anderson or A. H. B. Macgowan at Agassiz, and after being countersigned by either of them is good for return ticket to Vancouver, if presented on or before the expiration of the limit agreed upon. As this involves considerable additional work for the railway agents, it is requested that you purchase your tickets some time prior to the hour of departure. Arrangements have been made with the Canadian Pacific Navigation Company, by which on presentation of a certificate from J. R. Anderson, of the department of agriculture, Victoria, to the effect that the bearer is a bona fide intending participant, he will be granted a return ticket between Vancouver and Victoria for a single fare, tickets good from Thursday till Sunday night. The E. & N. railway company will issue return tickets at usual rates, and allow a refund, leaving the rate equivalent to a single fare, on presentation of a certificate from the secretary or J. R. Anderson to the effect that the bearer was a bona fide participant in the meeting. Reduced fares from Nanaimo to Vancouver are being arranged for. This is an opportunity which should not be missed and it is hoped by the promoters that the attendance will prove that the deepest interest is being taken in the science of agriculture and horticulture by all our people. Reasonable hotel fares will be procurable. Parties expecting to attend will do well to advise either Mr. Anderson or Mr. Macgowan of such intention, and those desiring the discussion of any special subject will please forward request for same to either of these parties.

THE TURF.

NEWMARKET TRIAL PLATE.

London, July 16.—Virago, winner of the race, was sold to the Marquis of Beresford for 300 sovereigns. Immediately afterwards Charles Archer, whose Golden Slippers was third in the race, entered the weighing room and claimed. Banquet in accordance with the rules of racing. Rule 57 reads: All other horses (besides the winner) starting may be claimed for the selling price plus the value of the stakes or plates by the owners of horses in the race or their authorized agents. Owners of horses placed shall have priority of claim in the order of their placing. The owner of the winner has the last claim.

London, July 17.—The Sportsman says this morning that Campbell and Simms will return to the United States. This paper says that Simms yesterday rode a bad race on Banquet. It was pretty obvious that he ought to have won, but the effort was delayed until too late. The Sportsman adds that Simms and one of the American owners were seen confabulating with Archer after the sale and that perhaps they bought the horse back.

Commenting on the auction of Harry Reed the Sportsman says: "Some are complaining that the running up of the price gave an unsportsmanlike appearance; but we cannot see why. Men who run high class horses in selling races for the purpose of plunging know what they are about, and the big surplus they have to pay for the privilege of running such horses and of winning so much money is doubtlessly previously considered. It is a poor form of sport and there is no reason why the fund and owner of the second horse should not benefit to the fullest extent possible, if only to discourage this form of gambling."

BASEBALL.

TO-MORROW'S LEAGUE GAME.

The league baseball match between Vancouver and Victoria will begin at 4 p.m. sharp to-morrow. At first it was considered that 5 p.m. would be a more suitable hour for the convenience of the public, but many patrons of the game advised a change to 4 p.m. The game is therefore definitely fixed for 4 p.m. Donnovan, Vancouver's clever pitcher, has excited much interest here, on account of the many reports of his clever work in the box. It has also been suggested that he intends to strike out many of the Amity batsmen, and if he succeeds in doing this he will accomplish what no visiting pitcher has performed yet. There is no denying the fact that Donnovan is a splendid man, and there will be no surprise if he proves to be somewhat of a nut to crack, but the enthusiasts here predict that the Amities will find him in some stage of the game. This will be the only opportunity of seeing the Vancouver team here this season, unless an exhibition game is arranged later on. The fight for the pennant will certainly become more exciting towards the end of the season, as the Amities play their last games away from home, and Nanaimo and Vancouver may be able to snatch victories at a game where everything is so uncertain as to results. Some changes, it is expected, will be made in the Amity in-field. The boys had a splendid practice last evening. Gus. Gowen, Duck, Franklin, Jackson, Lenfesty and Scott were showing up particularly well. Another evidence of the increasing popularity of baseball is the number of players who come out every practice night. There are quite a few promising men available for a second nine. Fawcett, Baily, J. Smith, the Lorimer brothers, Mallandaine and others being especially noticeable for their aptness in the field and at bat.

It is possible that Schultz will pitch for the Amities in to-morrow's match. The last time he pitched against Vancouver was in 1888, when the Amities' score was 23 runs and an innings to spare to one run for Vancouver.

THE RIFLE.

BISLEY MEET.

London, July 17.—The Canadian marksman, Hayhurst, made 35 points in the Daily Graphic competition and scored 31 in the Martini cup competition. In the Graphic competition, seven shots at 200 yards, any position, Skedden, the Canadian marksman, made the highest possible score, 35 points. In accordance with the regulations he fired three trial shots, all bull's eyes, and thus made ten bull's eyes in succession. The English and Scotch competitors in this event tied, and the final match will be shot off to-day.

Following are scores Canadian riflemen in the organization competition of 500 yards at the meeting of the national rifle association at Bisley to-day. Mitchell, 32; Rolston, 32; Armstrong, 32; Broadhurst, 32; White, 34; Hayhurst, 34; Andrews, 31; Stagger, 29; Boville, 29; Wynne, 29; Spearling, 33; Chamberlain, 34; Morris, 30; Mercier, 28; Meadows, 28; Fink, 25; Bent, 31 Russell, 31; Skedden, 31; Nutting, 26. Nearly all the Canadians have won prizes, ranging from five pounds, for their shooting in the Queen's prize and other competitons.

Skedden of the Canadian team won the contest for the Daily Graphic Cup.

—Constable McKenna of the provincial police left this morning for Beechy Bay with the police boat to bring to Victoria William Craigie, the boy who has been living with the Indians for some time past. The boy came to Victoria from San Francisco with his father in June last. After woking on the government buildings for a short time the father went to San Francisco to bring up the rest of his family, leaving William and his brother with a family in Victoria. The boy wandered over to the Songhees Indian reserve and went to Beechy Bay with a canoe load of Indians. The police boat will be back early this evening, when it will be decided what will be done with the boy.

The Times this morning gives prominence to a letter signed by Mr. St. Clair McKelway, editor of the Brooklyn Eagle, in which Mr. McKelway says he regards the elections in Great Britian as a check to the socialist tendency, and thereby of value to every division of the English speaking world.

The greatest excitement prevails in the Southport division of Lancashire today, where the Hon. G. N. Curzon, the sitting candidate and Conservative, is contesting his seat against Sir Herbert Naylor-Leland, the Liberal candidate. Both candidates married American ladies and their wives are taking a lively interest in the campaign. The two candidates, accompanied by their wives, are driving about rallying their forces, and great squads of men and women are seen on all sides wearing the favorite colors of the rival politicians. All bicyclists ha dthe party colors streaming from their handle bars and the Curzon riders formed an escort for Mr. and Mrs. Curzon, while the Naylor-Leland wheelmen formed themselves into a body guard for the purpose of cheering on their candidate. The Radicals are making the most of Sir Naylor-Leland's belated denial that he purchased his baronetcy. While a body of 150 Liberal bicyclists were escorting Sir Herbert and Lady Naylor-Leyland, several drunken Conservatives, wheeling a barrow painted with Curzon colors, dashed among them and sent many riders sprawling right and left. A lively scrimmage followed.

There are also lively times at Leeds to-day, especially in the west division, where Col. North, the Conservative candidate, is said to have good prospects of defeating the Liberal candidate ,Herbert Gladstone, son of the Rt. Hon. W. E. Gladstone. Col. North and his family, and a half a dozen secretaries and a number of servants and horses is occupying the principal hotel and conducting a clever campaign. He points particularly to the humble cottage in the poor part of the town where he was born. Col. North's speeches are not noted for their grammatical correctness, but they take with the poorer classes.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt, speaking at Abercairn to-day, said he accepted the honor of contesting West Monmouth in the cause of temperance. He added he was a firm Liberal and would stick to the Grand Old Man, even if everyone else deserted him.

3 p.m.—The following is the result of the general elections at 3 p.m.: Conservatives, 208; Unionists, 33; total, 230. Liberals, 50; McCarthyites, 20; Parnellites, 6; Labor, 1. Total, 77. Net Unionist gain, 36.
